Documents Required for Adjustment of Status (AOS) Application

For you and each family member applying for Adjustment of Status:

- Copy of current passport, all pages even blank ones required including biographic page and any stamped pages.
- Copy of expired passports (biographic pages and any stamped pages only required) used to enter the U.S.
- Copies of all documents previously issued by the U.S. immigration service, including I-797 Approval Notices, visa stamps, Form I-20s (for prior F-1 status), EAD cards, DS-2019s (for prior J-1 status), I-612 Visa Waiver Approval Notices (for prior J-1 status), and stamped I-129S forms (for L status).
**Please include all documents issued to family members applying for AOS.*
- Copy of most recent I-94 entry card or electronic printout from the U.S. Customs and Border website, along with printout of travel history (go to: <https://i94.cbp.dhs.gov/i94/#/recent-search>).
- Copy of long-form Birth Certificate (additional guidelines provided in the AOS Toolkit).
- Copy of Marriage Certificate for current and any prior marriages, if applicable.
- Copy of Custody decree for children, if applicable.
- Copy of Birth certificates for children, if applicable.
- Copy of Final Divorce Decree for any prior marriages, if applicable.
- Copy of Military records, if applicable.
- Copy of Court and prison records, if applicable.
- Completed and sealed medical exam and passport-style photos (originals must be mailed to our office).

*TRANSLATIONS: If you previously obtained certified English translations of any foreign language documents, please provide along with a copy of the original foreign language document. If not, our team will have the documents translated on your behalf to include with the application.

What if I cannot obtain any of the above documents quickly?

Please let your case team know if you expect a delay in obtaining any of the above documents such as your birth certificate. USCIS will accept applications with limited missing documents, and issue a request for any required documents (e.g. RFE) at a later date. The issuance of an RFE will not ultimately impact the outcome of your application, but to avoid delays in the processing of your application, we suggest you obtain all of the above listed documents as soon as possible to include in the initial filing.
